A more rustic offering this vintage, still very good and so, so aromatic. Enticing. There's a core of gorgeous dark fruit, plentiful spices, cedary sweet oak, licorice, plus more complexing charcuterie characters. Full bodied with supple and stretchy tannins, and wood tannins, too, so there's a slight grip and pucker on the finish, yet juiciness throughout. There's enough complexity for a nod at ageing, yet plenty of vibrancy for a nod to your mate to pour you another glass.

You are getting a pretty sophisticated wine for $30 here. The colour is deep with purple and dark red hues. The nose is a compelling mix of spices and pepper with floral red fruits. There is depth and power on the palate with generous fruit flavours supported with fine sinewy tannins and a liberal use of oak which remains in balance. A tiny amount of viognier adds a lightly aromatic lift.
