

GRAHAM NORTON'S IRISH GiN

“Great GiN is a starting point. Add the right mixers, a favourite glass and a friend or two and you’ve got a recipe for something very special indeed” GRAHAM NORTON

“Refreshing and crisp with a spicy kick on the finish.”
IRISH EXAMINER

OVERVIEW:

Graham Norton's Irish GiN is small batch distilled in West Cork, not far from Graham's Cork home. When the weather is right and the flowers are blooming, local ingredients are foraged to round out the blend of 12 botanicals that gives Graham's GiN its London Dry style and a flavour as distinctive as the man himself.

THE STORY:

“It all started in London in July” says Invivo co-founder Tim Lightbourne. “We were working with Graham on this year's wine blends, then at the end of a long blending session, someone suggested a celebratory round of martinis”.

It was during those drinks when Graham suggested adding an Irish GiN to his range and the plan was born to create this fabulous drop.

“Made from 12 botanicals with no element too dominant, this is a complex mixture of juniper, spice, herbs and citrus.” 92/100
