Crème anglaise, mint, smooth oak and morello cherry with honey-dipped figs to finish

TAMDHU
QUERCUS ALBA
DISTINCTION IV

Tamdhu Quercus Alba Distinction celebrates the unmistakable characteristics of first-fill American oak maturation, combined with the influence of hand-selected refill casks.

American oak sherry casks are a favourite of our Distillery Manager, Sandy McIntyre. In fact, his Distillery Manager's Single Cask – the Vintage 2003 First Fill American Oak Oloroso

Sherry Butt – won World's Best Single Cask Single Malt at the 2020 World Whiskies Awards.

Tamdhu matured in American oak has a wonderfully distinctive profile – it's noticeably different from our European oak maturations. Quercus Alba has a tight grain, ideal for crafting quality casks. The Oloroso sherry then modifies and seasons the toasted oak before the cask's long journey to Tamdhu, where our new-make spirit is filled.

TASTING NOTES

Nose: Malt loaf drizzled with crème anglaise. Then a wisp of lemon zest and mint.

Palate: Smooth oak gives way to morello cherries and dark chocolate.

Finish: Wave after wave of sherried oak. Finally, honey-dipped figs.

 SCOTCH WHISKY

Whisky excellence does not happen by accident. In 1897, a group of like-minded entrepreneurs came together with a shared ambition – to dedicate themselves to creating the finest whisky in the world

From the very first moment, everyone involved in Tamdhu had the same mind-set – excellence must be achieved. And so, it began. The finest distillery architect and engineer of the day, Charles C Doig ESQ, was enlisted. The flawless location by the banks of the River Spey was acquired. The most advanced techniques were chosen. And the perfect sherry casks from Spain were selected. The stage was set.

For over 100 years, whisky perfection was produced. However, in 2010 outside pressures forced the distillery to close its doors. But all was not lost just yet.

In January of 2012, the determination of Ian Macleod Distillers saw the Tamdhu Distillery doors open once more. Inspired by the founders’ dedication to one style; 100% sherry cask oak matured, the family enterprise returned the distillery to its former glory, using the same processes and passion for sherry maturation as the founders had before them.
