

Single Vineyard Maude

Poison Creek
Queensberry
Pinot Noir
2022

Vintage Summary

There were so many positives with this growing season and the resultant 2022 harvest. Nature provided some timely rains from October to December, which combined with warm dry periods in between allowed the vines to thrive, good even growth making Spring / Summer vine training a dream. Our nemesis, jack frost, was nowhere to be found and we enjoyed calm settled weather over flowering and fruit set, resulting in a healthy crop load with above average number of bunches/vine but smaller than average berry size, the perfect combination. Whilst the strong La Nina brought rain to the North Island and much of the East Coast of Australia, it gave us a beautifully warm, dry Autumn that extended into May. Whilst harvest started early for us in mid-March at Mohawk Hill, we enjoyed the cooler finish to the season which slowed down ripening at Poison Creek and Mt Maude, giving the Pinot Noirs in particular, time to develop wonderful flavours. We're excited.

Poison Creek Vineyard — Queensberry

Harvest date: 11th April 2022
Bottling date: 13th March 2023
Qty Bottled: 2,489 bottles
Alcohol 14%
pH 3.66
Acidity 5.3%

280m elevation / planted 2003 / clone 5
32% whole cluster / 32 days maceration
No fining / minimal filtration
Maturation 8+ year

Produced and bottled by:
Maude Wines
Central Otago New Zealand
maudewines.com

Poison Creek
Central Otago
Pinot Noir

by Maude