October 2026 Neudorf wines feel slept on in Australia, somewhat. Of course, those who know, know, but as a halcyon producer of the Nelson region, a good start, let alone a leading light in finessed wines of general New Zealand pluck and vim! This is crisp and then chewy. Ladles in the woody spices on just-ripe nashi pear, just-ripe nectarine, shows off a touch of vanilla cream, a dash of cinnamon, a splash of yuzu juice. It's quite fragrant in a spectrum of sweet-sour citrus and gentle, sweet, brown spices dashed with a touch of sea spray. It folds in restrained but ample flavour, chiseled texture, crispness scattered through the finish. In this, a very complete and excellent chardonnay wine.
